I.D.E.A. DEALER ACCREDITATION ACHIEVED

The Garage Door Depot is pleased to announce that its parent company, Canadian Access & Door Systems Inc. has achieved full Dealer Accreditation through the Institute of Door Dealer Education and Accreditation (IDEA), the educational arm of the International Door Association. (IDA)

Accreditation by IDEA is intended to assist the general public in the selection of a qualified, professional door systems dealer when purchasing, servicing, or installing an overhead door, automatic gate operator, fire door and other industry products. IDEA Accreditation enables professional door companies to be more easily recognized by the public. Companies earning the Accreditation seal have demonstrated a commitment to industry excellence by completing a demanding study course, documenting good business practices and receiving recommendations from others with whom they do business.

Dean Carman, President & CEO explains, "Part of our overall Mission Statement is to be the best in the industry and by training and taking the exams to become an accredited dealer we continue on that path which separates us from other non-accredited dealers. It's important that we continue to raise the bar on professionalism and excellence in our industry."

About the IDA & IDEA

The International Door Association (IDA) primary mission is to provide programs and services to door and access systems dealers, for the express purpose of enhancing their value and professionalism.
